One hundred and thirty-nine dead and 350 injured are known to have resulted from the Sicilian earthquakes and eruptions of Mt. Etna Friday night, while towns were devastated and large sections of the country laid waste. Relief work is progressing slowly and it may be weeks before the full count is completed. Sicily has suffered more than any one other region from similar disasters.

PRAISE AND SONG FOR MOTHER

Those who attended the services at the Christian Church were impressed with the beautiful sentiment expressed in the song and the remarks made in honor of mother. The choir rendered valuable services which were appreciated by all. In many ways the day as a whole was considered by some to be the best the church has ever had. There was a very good attendance throughout the day and three conversions. The baptismal services will be held Wednesday evening.

Five more men were in this school than in the Flemingsburg Christian School, the number being 69. Without counting the Go-To-Bible School Day, the average attendance of men for a few Sunday's back has been near sixty. The officers of this school, think the school will have a larger attendance some day than was reported for May 3.

TRAINHOPPER MANGLED

Colored Boy Loses Leg and Hand While Playing Circus On Moving Coal Train—Died This Morning.

Saturday afternoon at 12:20 o'clock Lee Douglas Gray, a 15-year-old colored trainhopper of the East End, while playing circus, jumping from one coal car to another while the freight train, No. 825, was moving west, fell from the train and had his left leg cut off and a big dent made in his head.

While lying along the tracks the boy, in a dazed condition, saw his severed limb on the ground and reached under the car for same, when the wheels cut off his left hand.

He was taken to Wilson hospital and for some time it was thought he might survive, but he died at 7 o'clock this morning.

This should be a warning to the scores of other boys who risk their life and limbs hopping moving trains.

THE MOTHER QUESTION

The Greatest of All Influences Says Dr. Barbour In Timely and Eloquent Talk Before Forest Avenue Parent-Teacher Association.

The Forest Avenue Parent-Teacher Association held its regular meeting Friday afternoon. Bearing in mind the nearness of the occasion to "Mother's Day" the program committee arranged its program along the same line of thought.

The Third and Fourth grades sang, "Lady April" and a two part song, "Red Rose" was given by twelve pupils.

Dr. Barbour in his ever obliging manner consented to address us on "Mothers," the theme chosen. Would that every mother and teacher had under his voice and heard the beautiful, the uplifting thoughts that fell so readily from his tongue.

Indeed, we felt in it both a prophecy and a benediction, and like Peter of old silently voiced, "It is good to have been here."

The immensity of the subject somewhat overawed him, the Doctor said, but he hoped to say some helpful things. It is with regret that we are unable to have his address published in full, however will quote some of the fine things he said.

As in the home, in the church, and society mother has ever been the greatest factor.

Mother is everywhere queen. From Proverbs we have the instruction of the father, the law of the mother.

So we can not overestimate the importance of mothers. They whose training begin with life itself, before they fall into the teachers hands even and carries them on through life. Two lads were in conversation. "I think," said one, the camel is the most useful animal. "I think mother is," said the other.

It is some times true that she is made the beast of burden in the home. Not only should we advocate better mothers but more of them.

Since mother is so important in the fundamentals it is well to ask what sort of mothers have we? It is an old saying that the sons inherit from the mothers, the daughters from the fathers. Certain it is that all great men have great mothers. Hamlet failed because both his mother and sweetheart failed him in his need.

While I believe in the modern woman, she will never be any greater than the women of the past. The times demand maternal government, mother thought.

With all the achievements of the day the public is moved up to the situation. Mothers' Congress, Parent-Teacher Associations, the pending of Mothers Pension Bill in Congress but tend to show the importance of mother and her right to be recognized.

He dwelt upon the mother's influence to play upon the future of the child—its conversation, its manners that go after training, not mannerisms that supply. The substantial, the graces, the high ideals that wouldn't outlive the "fashion flower culture."

If there is one thing lacking in the average mother it is the realization of the importance of laying well the foundation principles that will enable the child to go forward and make of life a success. It is possible to map out a course of training that will be pleasing and gratifying, yet overlook this great principle. Even so at thirty and forty fifty years of age sometimes, unexpectedly thoughts spring up even to ourselves unknown, which may have been inherited from the third generation back.

And we are sometimes painfully surprised that the influence of others is preferred to ours. This renders our position not only important but difficult. As examples of mothers influence he gave Moses, Joseph and Daniel—famous Bible characters, who were able to keep the faith when aliens from their homes and country. I am interested in, and encouraged by these needful co-operative organizations, for the individual is unable to bring about these changes alone. I hear the wind blowing in the merry trees and know that the

C. W. POST A SUICIDE
Battle Creek Cereal Food Millionaire Victim of Ill Health.

Santa Barbara, Cal., May 9.—With a bullet from a rifle which he had concealed, Chas. W. Post, millionaire manufacturer of cereal foods, killed himself at his winter home here today.

Evading a nurse who had been attending him since he returned home from the East a few weeks ago, he went to his apartment, placed the muzzle of the rifle in his mouth and pulled the trigger with a toe.

Mr. Post was convalescent from an illness which necessitated a major operation some weeks ago at Rochester, Minn. Returning here recently, he seemed to be exceedingly nervous and Mrs. Post engaged trained nurses to attend him.

Mr. Post was one of the founders of the so-called health food industry. His business interests for the manufacturing of breakfast foods represented millions of dollars.

He was born in Springfield, Ill., in 1854. Employing thousands of workmen, Mr. Post took an active part in local civic affairs.

He was an ardent supporter of the "open shop."
